

International ADR Development Service: Ireland

ADR Group and Friarylaw announced their exclusive partnership in October 2004 and launched a new dispute resolution initiative in the Irish marketplace. ADR Group, in collaboration with Friarylaw offers and provides education, training and mediator accreditation to the legal, professional and business communities in Ireland covering commercial, civil and family disciplines.

The training programmes are intensely practical and have been designed specifically for the Irish market. The core principles, skills and competencies covered in the programme relate to universally accepted mediation standards. The Irish angle relates to the practice of mediation under Irish Law.

Over 20 mediator training programmes have been delivered under the partnership.
